

Figurative Language Index

Overview: Linked below are several lists of similes, metaphors, idioms, and hyperbole. Figurative language comes in a wide variety of flavors and emotions. Instead of writing out a tight list of figurative language examples based on my communication preferences, I thought I would link to the most thorough internet resources on each of the four figurative language types. This will give you a more comprehensive selection to choose from and allow you to siphon examples better suited to your personality. Of course, I will update these links should I stumble over better resources in the future.

Instructions: Select 3-5 examples of figurative language from the lists below and append them to your Communication Keys to be reviewed and used in future speaking.

Similes: <https://ansible.uk/misc/15K-Striking.html>

Idioms: <https://www.theidioms.com/list/>

Hyperbole: <https://literarydevices.net/hyperbole/>

Metaphors: <https://threwthelookingglass.com/100-famous-metaphors-list/>